5. The candidate must have demonstrated an active interest in research and an adequate analytical level according to the judgement of the Admissions Board. The Admissions Board includes in this judgement the composition of the completed Bachelor’s programme the quality of the Bachelor’s thesis or other final projects

6. If the intended Master’s programme includes different programmes, a successfully completed specialisation or minor in the Bachelor’s programme may be required for admission to each of the different programmes.

7. When the programme commences, the candidate must have fully completed the Bachelor’s programme or pre-Master’s programme allowing admission to this Master’s programme.

8. In the event of demonstrable extreme unreasonableness or unfairness, the director may deviate from the requirement for a completed Bachelor’s degree for a period of time that it determines.

Article B.3.2 pre-Master’s programme

1. If an admission request does not satisfy the admission requirements, but these requirements can be expected to be met within a reasonable time period, the applicant can be given the opportunity to satisfy the requirements by means of completing a series of preparatory seminars. Students with a Bachelor’s degree in ‘Higher Professional Education’ (HBO) or the equivalent international degree cannot satisfy the requirements by means of the pre-Master’s programme.

2. The content of the pre-Master’s programme is described in paragraph 4.15, section B, of the Teaching and Examination Regulations for Bachelor’s programme Communication Science. The Admissions Board determines which of the pre-Master’s programme courses mentioned in this article are required courses for a student (if any) prior to admission in the Master’s programme. The Graduate School cannot be held responsible for offering individual-tailored preparatory seminars and neither to carry any of the costs involved.

3. The pre-Master’s programme needs to be successfully completed within two semesters. Proof of a successfully completed pre-Master’s programme serves as proof of admission to the Master’s programme specified within it in the subsequent academic year. Students who do not complete their pre-Master’s programme within two consecutive semesters are not admissible for the (Research) Master’s in Communication Science and will be rejected for the (Research) Master’s programme.

Article B.3.3  Admissions procedure and final deadline for application
1. Requests for admission to the study programme shall be submitted to the Graduate School of Communication. Admission deadlines are published at http://gsc.uva.nl/. In special cases, the director may consider a request submitted after the closing date.

2. Admission is granted on the condition that, no later than the relevant starting date, the candidate shall fulfil the requirements of Article 3.1 concerning knowledge and skills, as indicated on the certificates that the applicant has obtained for completed study programmes.

Article B.3.4  English language requirements
1. The proficiency requirement in English as the language of instruction can be met by the successful completion of one of the following examinations or an equivalent:
   - Academic IELTS: 7.0, at least a 6.5 on every subpart;

2. The concrete details of such a curriculum must be approved beforehand by the most appropriate Examinations Board.

3. The free curriculum is put together by the student from the units of study offered by University of Amsterdam and must at least have the size, breadth and depth of a regular Master’s programme.

4. Curriculum structure

Article B.4.1  Composition of programme
1. The Research Master’s programme comprises a cohesive set of components and a dissertation module. One of the following specialisation programmes is chosen within the Research Master’s programme:
2. The curriculum comprises of four compulsory elements:

- Substantive coursework (36 EC): In this phase, students follow seminars focusing on a specific substantive theme within communication science. In addition to literature study, these seminars comprise an empirical component. This includes the compulsory theoretical seminars Advancing and Building Communication Science Theory (6 EC), Good Research Practices (6 EC) and Good Research Practices Preparation (0 EC). Beside the compulsory theoretical courses, students have to complete one specialisation seminar (12 EC) and two electives (6 EC each). Alongside the specialisation seminar and electives, students must complete an additional assignment for each course (i.e. a total of three assignments) that requires them to reflect on the research in each course. These assignments will be a part of the Good Research Practices Preparation module.

- Methodological coursework (39 through 51 EC): This element entails training in methodological research skills. The courses in this element focus on methods that are used within empirical-analytical and/or ethnographical-qualitative research traditions. Students who started the programme per September 2019 or a later date, must complete the following compulsory seminars: 1) Content-analysis, 2) Experimentation, 3) Survey Design, 4) Research and Data Ethics. In addition, students must complete at least 12 EC of coursework from the following seminars: Advanced Multivariate Modeling, Dynamic Data Analysis, Structural Equation Modeling, Qualitative Analysis I/II, Big Data and Automated Content Analysis, Big Data and Automated Content Analysis, Part I & II, Advanced Network Analysis, Using R for data wrangling, Qualitative Analysis of Media Content, Replication or a related Research Master-level seminar concerning the analysis of empirical data.

- Research participation (12 through 24 EC): Participation involves assisting in the design, data collection, analysis and/or reporting of current research projects. Students who started the programme per September 2019 or a later date, must complete the following compulsory elements: 1) seminar Evaluating Academic Research (Academic Communication Research) or Evaluating Professional Research (Professional Communication Research) and 2) ASCoR Research Participation (Academic Communication Research) or Professional Research Participation (is integrated in the Professional Research Internship in the Professional Communication Research).

    In addition, students following the Professional Communication Research track must take a Professional Research Internship of at least 18 EC. The 18 EC Professional Research Internship is including the 6 EC of the Professional Research Participation.

    Students following the Academic Communication Research track may take on an Academic Research Internship of a maximum of 12 EC. Students may replace the internship with methodological coursework.

- Dissertation module (21 EC): a research project is carried out during this seminar, resulting in the Master’s thesis (18 EC). Subsequently, students will turn their thesis into an item for a lay/academic/professional audience (3 EC).

Every student compiles a tailor-made educational programme in consultation with one of the student advisers.

Certain points of the programme may be deviated from, as described in paragraph 1 of this article. The educational programme is then submitted for approval to the Examination Board, which may delegate this task to an official designated for this purpose.

In exceptional cases, the Examination Board may permit one or more units from other (Research) Master’s programmes to be selected.

Transitional provisions
For students that started the programme in February 2019 or earlier the following transitional provisions apply:

- Students who are required to (re)take Advancing and Building Communication Science Theory Part 2 must replace it with 6 EC substantive coursework.

For students who followed Dutch-language tutorial meetings in 2019-2020 the following transitional provisions apply:
- Students who followed the Dutch-language tutorial meetings of Health Communication in semester 2 2019-2020, must replace it with the corresponding English-taught specialisation seminar;
- Students who followed the Dutch-language tutorial meetings of Marketing Communication in semester 2 2019-2020, must replace it with the corresponding English-taught specialisation seminar.

Article B.4.2 Further conditions for exemption
At the written request of the student, the Examination Board may exempt the student from one or more examination components, if the student:

1. Has passed a unit of study of an accredited university at Master’s level that is equivalent in both content and level;

2. There are no exemptions granted on the basis of work experience, independent study or other non-curricular activities.

3. There are no exemptions granted on the basis of preparatory seminars. (See Article 3.2)

4. The Master's Thesis can never be exempted.

5. The maximum exemption that can be granted is 12 EC.

Exemptions can be requested by submitting a petition in SIS. Instructions can be found on https://student.uva.nl/communication-science/content/az/petition-in-sis/master/master.html

Article B.4.3 Registration of courses and rules for priority admission

1. Every student must register for each study unit of study, including the Master’s Thesis seminar. To participate in the educational programme, the student must register during the period specified in the course enrolment instructions and according to procedures mentioned there. The student may not be allowed to participate in the educational programme if the student does not register or fails to do so on time.

2. Students are allowed to register for a maximum of 30EC per semester. This amount can be extended in consultation with the study adviser. The student can be deregistered from extra courses if the student has not consulted the study adviser. The advice of the study adviser is not binding.

3. Admission to courses/programme components with limited capacity is based upon the following consecutive priority rules:
   a) priority is given to students of the own programme for whom the course is a required programme component;
   b) priority is given to students of the own programme for whom the course is an elective programme component;
   c) in case of sufficient capacity, permission is granted to all other students of the Graduate School of Communication
   d) in case of sufficient capacity permission is granted to those students who meet the entry requirements for the course

In case of insufficient capacity students [and PhDs] will be placed on a waiting list, with due observance of the above priority rules.
Article B.4.4 Sequence of examinations

Within the Research Master’s programme, there is a prescribed sequence of participating in courses. This sequence derives from the cumulative structure of the programme. Students may participate in examinations or practical exercises of the units below only if they have passed the examination or examinations for the units mentioned hereinafter:

a. students must have successfully (AVV) completed Good Research Practices Preparation (0 ECTS) to be able to start with Good Research Practice (6 ECTS).

If applicable, other entry requirements for courses are defined in the course description, to be found in the course catalogue.

Article B.4.5 Module guide

Prior to the start of the module a module guide will be made in which at least the following components are included:

a. the learning objectives of the module.

b. rules related to participation and absence.

c. the achievements that the student must fulfil successfully, the criteria according to which the student will be assessed and information on re-sit regulations.

d. a short argumentation of the adjustments made to the course on the basis of last year’s student evaluations.

The lecturer is responsible for placing the module guide on the digital learning environment prior to the start of the course.

Article B.4.6 Further conditions concerning registering for examinations

A student must register for all parts of a unit of study in order to be registered for an (interim) examination. The student will be registered for the (interim) examination within the education period and for the first re-sit of the education unit. The student may not be allowed to participate in the (interim) examination if the student does not register for (all parts of) the unit of study or fails to do so in time.

Article B.4.7 Further conditions for examinations and interim examinations

The following further conditions apply with regard to examination opportunities:

1. (Interim) examinations are carried out during the unit of study to determine the student’s academic skills and verify whether the student is attaining the specified learning goals adequately.

2. In the case of interim examinations, the examiner announces the result (=grade) of the interim examination at least 7 calendar days before the next interim examination, provided that the interim examinations assess the same learning outcomes. An exception applies to the 4-week, full-time courses in Block 3 and Block 6.

3. For every unit of study, the student has one opportunity to re-sit the test during the 12- month period starting when the educational programme preparing a student for the examination begins. The first testing opportunity falls within the educational period during which that unit is offered; the first opportunity to re-sit is offered before the 1st of August of the academic year in which the unit is offered. For testing methods other than examinations, the re-sit regulation and re-sit dates and/or deadlines are given in the module guide of the relevant course.

4. When the examination of a course consists of several interim examinations the student will have the opportunity to re-sit every interim examination. If an interim examination consists of several examination parts (deeltoetsen) the student will not necessarily have the opportunity to re-sit every part: grades for the examination parts may compensate each other. A re-sit always covers the same material as the original interim examination.

5. In the event of a re-sit, the result of the first attempt must be announced at least 10 working days before the possible re-sit.

Article B.4.8 Master’s thesis seminar evaluation

Both a) the individual supervisor and b) the so-called ‘Thesis Quality Master committee’ (TQM) assess the thesis on the basis of a series of criteria spelled out in the Thesis Assessment Form.
Article B.4.9 Attendance in courses

2. If the student is not able to attend a workgroup/practical training, the student needs to inform the lecturer, along with the reasons for the student’s absence.
3. Should the student not be able to fulfil the attendance regulations due to circumstances, the lecturer will determine, after the lecturer has been informed by the student about the reasons of the absence, whether and in what way the student can still fulfil attendance obligations.
4. Should the student not agree with the decision made by the lecturer as meant in paragraph 3, the student can appeal the decision at the Examinations Board.
